FAST TIME ON THE ROAD

Trip of the Automobile From Cleveland to New York.

FEEL USED FOR ONE DOLLAR

Travelled Seven Hundred and Seven Miles in Twenty-seven Hours and Thirty-five Minutes Running Time. Made Fast Time Through Yonkers. Laid out Along the Route.

Alexander Wilson of Cleveland, who accompanied Charles E. Mackay of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, left that city for New York in an automobile Monday morning, May 29, for the purpose of demonstrating the possibilities of the new mode of travel. Arrived at the Astor Hotel in New York at a quarter of eight o'clock in the evening on May 31. The trip had been the object of the trip, but Mr. Wilson and his companion, Mr. Mackay, arrived at the hotel before 8 o'clock. Mr. Mackay was unable to wait longer for them with the letter which they were to bring him from Albany, N. Y.

In a recent dispatch from Albany Mr. Wilson told of his faith in the automobile as the vehicle of the future and of its possibilities. He said the other way.

"The automobile is the coming vehicle. We left Cleveland at 6 o'clock Monday morning. The distance by rail from New York to Cleveland is 423 miles. The automobile attached to our automobile shows that 737 4-10 miles were traveled. On Monday we made the 218 miles from Cleveland to Buffalo in 11 hours. The second day the distance from Buffalo to Fairport, N. Y., which is 41 miles, was covered in 6 hours and 49 minutes. From Fairport to Syracuse is 59 miles. This was done on Wednesday in 7 hours and 29 minutes. Thursday the 147 miles from Syracuse were covered in 14 hours and 48 minutes, and on May 31 the 161 miles between Albany and New York were accomplished in 10 hours and 49 minutes.

"The total running time was 47 hours and 24 minutes. And it need not be for the breaking of an axle on route the trip would. I am quite sure have been made in four instead of five days. On leaving Cleveland we figured that the number of miles that we should be obliged to travel following the route, would be about 800, and we allowed seven days in which to accomplish this. The distance as we traveled proves to have been a little more than 707 miles, and this has been done in five days, so that we are 297 4-10 miles ahead of our schedule. Through misdirection we went 17 miles out of our way on Monday.

"The amount of gasoline consumed during the trip was not more than 14 gallons, and the cost of this was about $1. At Cleveland we had taken six gallons on starting, and this cost only 6 cents, but at the different places along the road where it was necessary to replenish the supply I was obliged to pay 20 cents a gallon. The amount of gasoline required in running the vehicle varied, of course, according to the condition of the road, the average being one gallon for 40 miles. The wear and tear on the machine during the trip was less than one-quarter of 1 per cent.

"The greatest difficulty we encountered was the bad condition of the roads generally—that is, their roughness. Throughout the United States the roads, generally speaking, are wretched. Now in France exactly the reverse is the case. There they have the finest roads in the world. It is not a matter of wonder, therefore, that French automobiles easily make 30 miles per hour or more. If the same roads were to be found here, 60 miles per hour could be made with gasoline automobiles. If a man had to depend on the machine alone, the Frenchmen could not beat us, but they have the roads in their favor.

"Practicability is where economy comes in. You can buy gasoline for 65 cents per gallon. Electricity cannot be compared with that price. In burning gasoline in an automobile 35 per cent of heat units is obtained. In coal after steam has been obtained, only 9 per cent of heat units is obtained; hence the advantage of gasoline over steam.

"Near Rhinebeck, up the Hudson, we overtook an ox team. We passed the team at the rate of 25 miles per hour, while its speed was not more than two miles per hour. There were the old and the new for you. If the time of the driver had been worth anything, it would have paid him to have had an automobile to draw his wagon load, for the wagon in which we were riding was hauling just as much weight as was the ox team. Near Amsterdam we passed a freight train for a couple of miles on an up grade and beat it by 100 yards. The train consisted of an engine and three cars.

"We found the worst piece of road between Buffalo and Albany and the best between Sing Sing and New York. We came flying through Yonkers at the rate of 30 miles per hour, and just before some of the hills that had a 9 per cent grade. We went so fast that the passengers mistook us for a ship, so that they might arrest us for fast driving, I suppose, but I did not stop. I wanted to make time first and be arrested, if necessary, afterward."—New York Herald.

NEW SMOKE CONSUMER.

Consul General Mason Reports Development of a Successful Process.

Consul General Frank H. Mason, at Berlin, makes an interesting report to the state department at Washington on the development of industrial economies in Germany of an invention which promises to save more effectively than has been done hitherto the product of consuming bituminous coal, slack, sawdust and other inferior forms of fuel without smoke and under conditions of extreme economy.

Describing the new method for the information of the American government and the benefit of American cities, the consul general says it is the system of Paul Cornelia for the consumption of low grade fuels, the practical process of which has been greatly modified and improved.

Continuing Mr. Mason says: "The process consists simply in distributing heated and slightly compressed air through hollow grate bars to the whole lower surface of the furnace, which, being induced upward through the mass of burning fuel, secures equal and perfect combustion and an intense, regular heat from materials that would not be available if burned by ordinary methods. This system has been in practical use since September.

"From the standpoint of general utility, the advantages which seem to have been secured by this system and which render it important to the United States may be summarized as follows: "First.—The smokeless consumption of bituminous slack and other waste of mines and coke works in cities and towns.

"Second.—The use for steam and heating purposes of the lowest grades of western bituminous coals, neat, sawdust, etc., and the vast mounds of unthrifty waste that now lumber the mining districts of Pennsylvania.

"Third.—In naval vessels, notably torpedo boats, to secure such complete consumption of bituminous fuel as to eliminate smoke, which serves to indicate the presence and location of a war vessel to an enemy.

"It will be understood that while any fuel—lump or nut coal, for instance—burns freely on a Cornelia grate, perfect combustion with consumption of smoke gases requires the fuel to be pulverized, so that for naval purposes lump coal would have to be crushed in order to secure the best results."

AS SEEN BY BRITISH EYES

Graphic Description of the Fighting in the Philippines.

THE STORY OF A NAVAL SURGEON

Says the American Soldier Is Superior, but the Regiment Inferior, to English—Troops' Indifference to Danger—Thrifty Chinese Trade on Both Sides of the Line.

A surgeon of the British navy, who accompanied the United States troops to the Philippines and who witnessed the fighting of March 23 and 24, during which General Eder was killed, has furnished an interesting account of the fighting under General MacArthur and Wheaton for the Hongkong Times on April 13, which has just been received at Washington. His description of the fighting is graphic and interesting, but all the principal facts have been anticipated in official and press dispatches. The writer, however, gives a number of incidents which came under his personal observation that are worth reproducing. Here is an incident following the capture of Malabon, which explains the action of the Filipinos when wounded, or just prior to capture, in disposing of their arms and ammunition. Says the writer:

"One prisoner was captured in the village. The first thing he did was to light a cigarette. To the northeast of the church and village lay an open tract of country, across which the rebels were scampering in hundreds, with the object of reaching the woods that lay beyond. Several of them were shot as they ran, and fell dead or wounded in the field. I found one Filipino captain shot through the head. His rifle had been carried off by another Filipino; but, as he had fallen on his cartridge bag, no time had been allowed to remove this in the general stampede. I appropriated his cartridges, and later on in the day counted 120 rounds of ammunition (the brass bullet) I mention this fact to show how well these men are armed. Farther on I came across another poor fellow shot through the heart and lungs. Blood was welling up from his mouth, and he was practically moribund. Not far from the latter I saw a struggling form endeavoring to conceal himself in the bush. Never shall I forget the look of terror in his eyes as I ran up to him. He thought he was about to be done away with. His left thigh had been pierced by a Krag-Jorgensen bullet. However, he calmed down when he found that my intentions were not murderous, and evinced every sign of gratitude when I proceeded to dress his wounds, even offering to give me the remainder of water in his bamboo water carrier. I found his rifle, an 1896 Mauser, not far away, but the back had gone. He had thrown it away, and alternately coaxed and threatened my party were futile in making him say what he had done with it or indicate where he had concealed it. Aguinaldo has issued orders that whenever a soldier feels himself to be mortally wounded or so wounded that he is rendered helpless and will probably fall into the hands of the enemy he is immediately to conceal or destroy his arms and ammunition. On the other hand, should any soldier come across a dead comrade he is to appropriate the arms and ammunition of the latter, in order that they may not fall into the hands of the Americans."

The British surgeon, after his experience with the Americans on the fighting line, gives an opinion of the American volunteer in comparison with the British regular soldier, which will be read with interest. He says:

"There is a great deal of difference between the American soldier and our own. As individuals I look upon the former both physically and mentally as our superiors, collectively as distinctly inferior. Put in another way, the American soldier is better probably than the English, but an English regiment is better than an American. A typical soldier should be, speaking broadly, a nonthinking unit of an organized whole; he should be one of the wheels within wheels of a complicated machine, ready to obey in an instant the order of the officer immediately over him without any private opinion he himself may entertain as to the utility or inutilty of that order. Now, the American soldier is not this. He discusses and criticizes the tactics of his general with as much freedom as he would the weather. Another point with which one is particularly struck is their absolute indifference to danger, amounting at times to a callous recklessness. Before the line advanced from Calocan the soldiers might have been seen playing baseball, though fully exposed to the fire of the rebel trenches. Every two or three days a life was lost through mere carelessness. On asking one of the men why he so exposed himself, he said, 'Well, we've been in these trenches now for some six weeks and have got tired of dodging bullets.'

"I was taking a photograph of a group of soldiers one day last week and was in the act of focusing on the ground glass when a rebel fired at either me or the camera. The bullet went through the bush. I was standing in, between the legs of the camera and into the earth just beyond. This being the first time I had experienced the whistle of a bullet within seven inches of my face, I was not ashamed to confess that I was somewhat discomposed and could not prevent an involuntary ejaculation and start. Unfortunately I tripped and fell over the camera. The soldiers, seeing what had happened, rushed up to me, thinking I was hurt, and when they saw how matters stood they burst out into the most unceremonious laughing. Said one of them, 'Gues that was a damn dangerous shot who was'

with his. I think pretty well of my own. I am certain that Fitzsimmons will stand punishment, for I saw him get up at Carson with the left hand and then come on and win. He has got to be hit and his awful hard, to settle him, as that fight of his with Cheyney at Boston demonstrates. To my way of thinking there is but one way to beat him and that is to drop him. As long as he is on his feet, no matter how groggy, he is always dangerous.

Of course I have not figured hitting down to the science Fitz claims to have. I am liable to reach behind me for a swing if I see a chance to use one. I think I can cover my jaw, but I must admit that Fitz, from his pictures, looks pretty hard to get at. Still, I will get to him, and so far as blocking goes, I am more interested in getting a good punch in than in stopping every jab that starts. I can stand a punch, and expect to have to take a few to get a few in.

I am interested in Fitzsimmons' left shift. Of course it will never be worked out on me, for if he tries it the story of the fight will be told in a line. I will certainly mail him if he starts to use any of those newspaper punches on me. I can think of nothing I am more liable to do, however, than to win the fight with that very trick. I have worked it out, and I leave it up my sleeve to use at the earliest moment.

In short, I expect to beat Fitzsimmons by outfighting him. I believe I know his tricks and how to defeat them. He will not work any of them on me, and I will finally come down to a give and take game. I am stronger, heavier and can both give and take more punishment. I guess no man is going to tell exactly how he intends to fight a man until he faces him. I intend to fight the best I can with both hands. I am not going to let his champion sneak anything in on me or trick me. He has got to fight for this purpose harder than he ever fought for any in his life. I am going to make him fight, that's all, and at that game I'll beat him. JAMES J. JEFFRIES.

Jacob Mathias of Lonsport, Ind., while driving along in his wagon came across two chicken hawks engaged in a fierce battle. He left his team, and picking up a stick from the ground, went to where they were fighting. Much to his surprise, both of the birds attacked him and clawed his person before he could beat them off. He succeeded in killing one with several good whacks over its head with the stick, but the other continued the fight until Mathias was reinforced by a man from a field, when they succeeded in killing it also. JEFFRIES ON THE FIGHT

The Boiler Maker Tells How He Will Defeat Fitzsimmons.

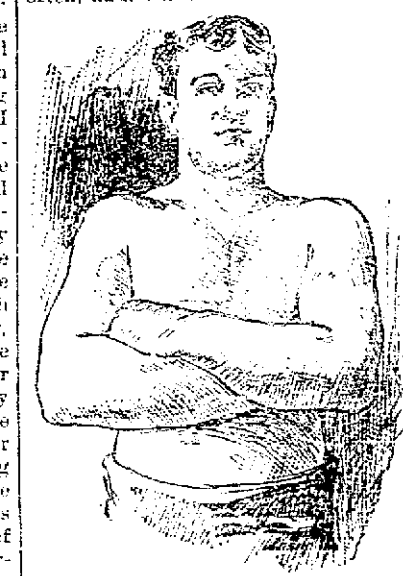

EXPECTS TO WIN BY OUTFIGHTING

Is Interested in Fitz's Left Shift and Says He is Liable to Win the Fight With That Very Trick—Believes He Knows His Tricks and How to Discount Them.

The New York Evening Journal publishes the following statement from Jim Jeffries as to how he will defeat Fitz Fitzsimmons at Coney Island. He says:

"I certainly expect to beat Fitzsimmons on the evening of June 9, or I would not fight him. I do not think he is easy—far from it—but I believe in my heart that I can beat the man I saw beat Corbett at Carson. Just exactly how I will go about it I do not know yet. I guess when I say I am going to fight him whenever he comes within reach is the shortest way I can tell it. I have no pet schemes, nor have I discovered any new blows. I guess if the old fashioned smashes won't beat Fitz he won't be beaten.

I believe I know a few things about scientific fighting, in spite of the talk about being 'just a strong, rough fellow.' Fitz may know it all, but he will learn that I know a few things myself. I believe I have a good left hand as Fitzsimmons, and if I ever get the right to it I guess it will come fast enough to end things. I am a firm believer in the right hand. One punch with that goes the whole distance very often, and, while I know Fitz is clever

TEA CULTURE IN THE SOUTH

Secretary Wilson Sees a Great Future For Tea Industry.

Secretary Wilson of the agricultural department has just returned to Washington from his tour through the south, made at the request of the president, who wished a personal inspection of the conditions of the agricultural and other industries of the southern states. Mr. Wilson says a condition of great prosperity was evident at all the points he visited.

The encouragement given by the Dingley tariff law has had a marked effect upon some of the industries, especially rice, which is being grown in such quantities as to give promise of entirely supplying the demands of the country in the near future. As a result of his observations the secretary believes that there is every indication for the investment of capital in the best sugar industry in nearly all the southern states. Good results have also been obtained from the experiments with tea cultivation in the south.

"It is only a question of time," said Secretary Wilson, "when the south will produce all the tea the people in the United States want. This department proposes to push experiments along that line. We intend to establish a tea farm in every southern state as soon as that can be done intelligently. We propose to get the finest varieties of tea to be found in the orient and to have the planting done where growth can be forced through irrigation so as to get plenty of tender shoots.

"The young people of the south can earn enough to clothe and board themselves during the school period by picking tea. Mr. Shepard of Sumnerville, S. C., has 50 acres cultivated as a tea farm. He told his colored neighbors that he would build them a schoolhouse and provide a teacher for their children free of cost if they would agree to let the children pick tea leaves for him twice a week at a reasonable rate of wages for their time. The children are getting their education and are earning enough to maintain themselves.

"I am in favor of that kind of child labor, though I emphatically oppose placing young children in a factory, where they could not secure an education. I do not think a child will ever be of any value to himself or his country who is brought up in utter idleness until the fourth year of age is reached. He must learn to do chores, assume responsibilities, and be one of the bread winners of the family."

A Jointed Snake.

Mr. George D. Pemberton of Spottsylvania, Va., reports the following: "While walking around my place I came across a copper colored snake about 2 1/2 feet long. I struck the reptile a blow on the head with a stick, and, to my surprise, the snake fell apart in four pieces. Near by was a hole, and into this the head went, and, although I worked for half an hour trying to get it, I failed. I then examined the body, which was as hard as if it had been frozen, and as far as I could discover, it was entirely lifeless. Thinking it was a jointed snake, I left the pieces of the body on the ground and went to the house. Shortly afterward I returned, but the portion of the body that I had left disappeared and no trace of it could be found."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

TRUSTEES

Of Water Works System

Will Fight the Further Polluting of Lost Creek.

A Vigorous Course to Be Pursued Against All Offenders—On Producers Included.

The water works trustees have been out looking at the Lost creek impounding reservoir. As a result they concluded that there is good reason why many people do not use the water supplied by the city, and they purpose to correct the cause by using as much water obtained from drilled wells as possible, and preventing the further dumping of filth into Lost creek and its tributaries. To this end the matter has been placed in the hands of the legal firm of Motter and Mackenzie who are sending out to the farmers, oil producers and slaughter house magnates living east and southeast of the city the following letter, advising them of the punishment that will come to offenders:

LIMA, OHIO, May 31st, 1899.
DEAR SIR:—We have been retained by the Board of Water Works Trustees to prosecute suits against any person or persons for the pollution of waters that run from the surface of the ground into Lost Creek, or any of its tributaries within ten miles of the east and south corporation lines of the city of Lima, Allen county, Ohio. Before taking any further steps in this direction we would call your attention to an ordinance, passed June 7th, 1886, which ordinance is now in full force and effect in said city, which reads as follows:

AN ORDINANCE

For the protection of the Water Works in the city of Lima, Ohio.

Section 1. Be it ordained by the common council of the city of Lima, Ohio, that in order to preserve the waters of Lost Creek pure for the water works of the city, it shall be unlawful for any person or corporation, or persons acting for or on behalf of any corporation, to throw, deposit, or empty upon or into the waters of Lost Creek or any of its tributaries, or cause the same to be done, by sewer, drain or otherwise, any kind of filthy matter, dead animals or carcasses, filthy or poisonous water, oil, coal, tar or other substances, or anything which will taint or pollute the water, at any place on said creek within ten (10) miles of the east and south corporation line of the city of Lima, Allen county, Ohio.

Section 2. That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons, company or corporation, who shall place or cause to be placed upon their own premises or premises at the time under their control, by lease or otherwise, any pitch, tar, grease, oil or other substance of any kind, so that the same drains or runs into Lost Creek or any of its tributaries, whether directly from their own premises or through that of others, by which the waters of such creek or its tributaries is rendered filthy, dirty, polluted or offensive within ten (10) miles of the east and south corporation line of the city of Lima, Ohio.

Section 3. Any person or persons acting for any company or corporation, violating any of the provisions of the first and second sections of this ordinance shall, on conviction thereof before the mayor, be fined in any sum for each offense not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars and cost of suit, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days, or may be fined and imprisoned as aforesaid, at the discretion of the mayor; and if any person, company or corporation shall fail to discontinue said act and shall continue to do acts therein provided against, such failure shall be deemed a violation of this ordinance, and every day's continuance of such act, shall be deemed a fresh offense against this ordinance.

Section 4. That this ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after ten days after its publication according to law.

Passed June 7, 1886.

This ordinance was passed by the authority vested in the city council under section 6927 of the revised statutes of Ohio, which is as follows, to-wit: Sec. 6927. (Revolving well, spring, etc.) Whoever maliciously puts any dead animal, carcass, or part thereof, or any other putrid, noxious, noisome, or offensive substance, into, or in any manner befouls any well, spring, brook or branch of running water, or any reservoir of water works, of which use is made or may be made, for domestic purposes, shall be fined not more than fifty nor less than five dollars, or imprisoned not more than sixty days, or both.

And section 2433 of the revised statutes of Ohio, which is as follows, to-wit:

Sec. 2433. (Criminal jurisdiction; territorial limits) The jurisdiction of any corporation owning water works, to prevent or punish any pollution of the water, shall extend ten miles beyond the corporation limits.

The water from this aforesaid territory is used by the citizens of Lima for all purposes. Therefore it becomes necessary for the board of trustees to enforce this ordinance to the end that the health and convenience of the citizens of the city of Lima may be protected.

We call your attention to this so that you may prevent any pollution of the water by any of the means prohibited in the ordinance herein. The board of trustees are determined to prosecute all violators of this ordinance.

We hope that seeing the necessity for this act upon the part of the board of trustees, there will be no occasion on our part to take further proceedings in the matter. We remain Yours very respectfully,

MOTTER & MACKENZIE,
Attorneys for the Board of Water Works Trustees, of Lima, Ohio.

HAND OF DEATH

Terminates the Long Suffering of Mrs. Langstaff.

The Deceased Had Been a Resident of Allen County For a Quarter of a Century.

Mrs. Rachael Langstaff, aged 72 years died Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock of neuralgia of the heart, at her home three miles southwest of this city, in Shawnee township. The deceased was born in New Jersey in 1827, and came to Allen county nearly 25 years ago. Seventeen years ago she slipped on a banana peeling while walking on Main street in this city and received injuries to her spine, from which she never recovered. Since the accident Mrs. Langstaff had never been able to walk a step but always seemed to be cheerful, despite her misfortune. Her youngest daughter, Elizabeth, has always been close to her mother's side to cheer and comfort her.

To mourn their sad affliction, two daughters and two sons survive the deceased, the husband having died several years ago.

The funeral services will be held from Shawnee church tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and will be conducted by Rev. Rupe, pastor of the First Baptist church, assisted by Rev. Maltbie. Interment will be made in Shawnee cemetery.

If troubled with rheumatism, give Chamberlain's Pain-Balm a trial. It will not cost you a cent if it does no good. One application will relieve the pain. A Card of Thanks.

I wish to say that I feel under lasting obligations for what Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has done for our family. We have used it in so many cases of coughs, lung trouble and whooping cough, and it has always given the most perfect satisfaction. We feel greatly indebted to the manufacturers of this remedy and wish them to please accept our hearty thanks.—Respectfully, Mrs. S. Doty, Des Moines, Iowa. REMAINS

Of Brakeman Carson Murphy Brought to This City.

Died From His Injuries, in Hospital at Fremont.—Funeral to Be Held To-morrow.

Late yesterday afternoon the sad news was received in the city announcing the death of Carson Murphy, the L. E. & W. brakeman who was crushed between two cars in the L. E. & W. yards at Fremont, day before yesterday. As was stated yesterday, the unfortunate man's right leg was amputated at the thigh after he was removed from the scene of the accident to the Fremont hospital. The shock proved too great and death terminated his sufferings yesterday. The remains were brought to this city on L. E. & W. train 5 last evening and were removed to the deceased's late home at 910 Tanner avenue, where the funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, to be followed by interment in Woodlawn cemetery.

Carson Murphy was born at Kings-town, O., and reached the age of 24 years. He had been in this city a number of years, his aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Murphy, also being residents of this city. For some time he followed the trade of a boiler-maker, but about two years ago secured a position as a brakeman on the L. E. & W., and remained in that employment until it resulted in his fatal accident. A year ago last March he married a Miss Neusbaum, who survives him.

Would Not Suffer So Again for Fifty Times the Price.

I awoke last night with severe pains in my stomach. I never felt so badly in all my life. When I came down to work this morning I felt so weak I could hardly work. I went to Miller & McCurdy's drug store and they recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It worked like magic and one dose fixed me all right. It certainly is the finest thing I ever used for stomach trouble. I shall not be without it in my home hereafter, for I should not care to endure the sufferings of last night for fifty times its price.—G. H. Wilson, livayman, Burgetstown, Washington Co., Pa. Last fall I sprained my left hip while handling some heavy boxes. The doctor I called on said at first it was a slight strain and would soon be well, but it grew worse and the doctor then said I had rheumatism. It continued to grow worse and I could hardly get around to work. I went to a drug store and the druggist recommended me to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I tried it and one half of a 50-cent bottle cured me entirely. I now recommend it to all my friends.—F. A. Babcock, Erie, Pa. Glorious News

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help, but her cure is complete and health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion, builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by H. F. Vortkamp, druggist. Guaranteed.

HALF A BILLION LOST.

Gold Standard Cost the Farmers That Last Year.

PRIZE OF PRODUCTS CUT IN TWO.

At the same time the London Physicists granted to the extent of $500,000 on our Silver Standard Against the competing countries—we get it in the neck bottle ways.

One more the farmers of America have lost their money in the gold standard. The gold standard has cost the farmers half a billion dollars in the last year. The gold standard has cost the farmers half a billion dollars in the last year. The gold standard has cost the farmers half a billion dollars in the last year.

The farmers have therefore more than doubled our medium of exchange in 12 months. This shows the importance of the agricultural interests of the United States, and distinguishes the industry that should receive the largest measure of protection and encouragement. The single standard organs are using the above facts as an argument against the silver standard.

But why should we throw away our 60 millions of silver? And worse still, why should we sell the silver that we do produce to foreign money changers for one-half its value, and thus enable them to use it at its full value in purchasing agricultural products and manufactured articles in silver using countries that compete with us, thereby reducing the prices of the products of our own citizens in the same ratio? This is the real question.

The value of our silver product for 1898, at the present boom price, was a little over $35,000,000. It was purchased for some millions less by the London money dealers, because they bought before the rise in price, and they used it at its full value of nearly $70,000,000 in the purchase of breadstuffs from countries that compete with our farmers, thereby driving down the prices of farm products in this country many millions of dollars. If the silver had been remonetized and brought to par, the farmers instead of netting half a billion of foreign gold for their crops of 1898 would have netted more than a billion, and our citizens generally would have saved the $35,000,000 in silver which our tory administration collectively permitted the Jews of London to steal from them. These are the real issues. There are also others. Stability of prices is worth considering, and this can only be secured by a stable and increasing medium of exchange, equal to the increase of population. Shall we depend for our prosperity on foreign crop failures and famines when a stable and increasing currency would sustain prices and give us prosperity all the time? The thing to do is to come to our senses and act with unprejudiced wisdom, instead of being controlled by party spite and narrow mindedness.

Bryan on Corporations.
Corporations are fictitious persons created by law for the public good, and the power which creates is sufficiently potent to regulate, to restrain or to annihilate. For instance, the patent law gives to the patentee a monopoly for a period of years. In some instances a patent has proved a great monopoly and has brought to its possessor immense wealth. It is as much within the province of legislation to place restrictions upon the patent as it is to withdraw protection at the expiration of a fixed term of years. If the law were so modified that a patent would cease to protect after an arbitrary sum, say $100,000 or $200,000, had been realized from it, the protection would still be sufficient to lay the foundation of a large fortune. In like manner the corporation can be regulated by laws sufficiently liberal to preserve its virtues and yet sufficiently drastic to eliminate its vices.—Bryan.

Keep the Truth in Sight.
No artful appeals to national pride or to glory or to alleged consistency or to our landing down the flag should lead us to forget that no government is inflexible, except on the hourly ground that it conducts to the happiness of the governed. If American government in the Philippines means the realization of this fundamental principle it must give way to some other experiment.—Des Moines Leader.

All Wrong or All Right.

Governor Mount says that he believes there are some trusts that are all right, that they are the means of economy and all the rest of that kind. That kind of talk is like the old argument that slavery was right because some masters treated their slaves well. Either recognize and combination in restraint of trade is right or it is wrong. If it is wrong, it is wrong altogether.—Lima News.

Mrs. Hyde has booked Vogel's Mastodon Minstrels, combined with Darker America for a return date, Monday June 5. During this organization's last engagement here the large audiences were more than pleased with the novel and unique performances.

While the title is the same the company is practically a new one and those who have seen the show may secure their seats for Monday night with the assurance that they will get their money's worth. The prices are in keeping with the season, 10, 20 and 30 cents. This is the first time Darker America ever played to these low prices.

Discovered by a Woman.
Another great discovery has been made, and that too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her for seven long years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery, by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose, that she slept all night; and with two bottles, has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Trial bottles free at H. F. Vortkamp's drug store. Regular sizes 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

BAND MUSIC
Will Be Furnished the Lawn Fete by Barlow's Minstrel Band.

Dr. S. A. Baxter visited the palatial car of the Barlow minstrels this morning, and, as only the Doctor can do, he incidentally mentioned the lawn fete to be held at Baxter Place this evening, by the lady board of managers for the hospital. Minstrel men are rarely dull of apprehension, and some time they grow ill and have to seek treatment in hospitals. For that reason Barlow's big minstrel band will play sweet music at Baxter Place this evening for sweet charity's sake. A rare treat is in store for all who hear it.

A CUNNING PHRASE.

"Benevolent Assimilation" Means Butchering a Harmless People.
The agile political acrobat who occupies the presidential chair coined the melodious term "benevolent assimilation" to charm the ear and evade the minds and consciences of Christian people while he employs the power of the government to butcher an unoffending people, guilty of no crime except loyalty to their God given instinct to be free.

Since the close of hostilities with Spain, and the natural relaxation of the public mind in consequence thereof, the American people are again assuming a normal state of being, both mentally and morally. The thought of degenerating into a nation of political pirates, and becoming the assassins of liberty in the far off Philippine Islands is causing a shudder to come over those who only a short time since were so wrapped in the success of our army and navy that they were mentally oblivious to the radical departure from American ideals that characterize the conduct of the administration.

"Benevolent assimilation" is a cunning phrase that rings sweetly upon the tympanum, but when the reality is flashed upon the retina, and we behold sons, brothers, fathers, neighbors and friends with machine guns, rifle and saber in hand, on the distant islands of the sea murdering and butchering their fellowmen burning their villages, destroying their homes and devastating their country in an attempt to compel them to accept us as their masters, the terrible reality dawns upon us that we are debauching ourselves and inviting upon our own heads the wrath of a righteous God.—National Watchman.

The Top Notch of Patriotism.

That we have money to burn in this country is shown by the fact that it is proposed to give a banquet to Admiral Dewey on his return with guests limited to 100 and the price for each plate $100—this in New York at the Waldorf-Astoria. It will include the top notch and very best of patriotism and plenary. But suppose a more patriotic or richer 50 give a dinner at $1,000 a plate? Will they not strike a high note of patriotism, if money is the gauge?—Pittsburgh Post.

Bad News For McKim.

The faction fight within the Republican party of Ohio has been an interesting feature of the game of politics for some time, and now that it threatens to break out in its own state election in next year an attention it assumes national importance. The defeat of McKim in the state election next year will be a great blow to the party, and will be a great blow to the party, and will be a great blow to the party.

Banks and Trusts.

The Republican party is no longer in any sense a party of the people. The organization and membership of the party are in the hands of the money power and monopolies. It is so completely within their grasp that they can not only control the party, but they can also control the party, and they can also control the party.
